What this means for you

Ākonga are at the centre of everything we do which means you'll still be able to study and train across multiple courses, but you'll have more choices in what, how and where you can learn.

Te Pūkenga is here to help you fit learning around your life.

It's certainly one of the most colourful events of the year!

Our campuses

NGĀ WĀHI AKO

We have five campus locations across the Wellington region, allowing specialised and tailored learning in industry leading facilities.

The Porirua Campus is the base for many of our Health and Social Services programmes. Located just 20 minutes from Wellington City, and looking out over Titahi Bay towards Whitireia peak, the Porirua Campus is one of New Zealand's most beautiful sites for a tertiary institution.

Our Petone Campus is located in the vibrant suburb of Petone. The area is full of cafés, bars and restaurants as well as being home to the Light House Cinema, Remutaka Cycle Trail and Petone Settlers Museum.

Our Construction Campus is the biggest trades training facility in New Zealand. The campus is located on State Highway 2, just minutes from Petone railway station with lots of parking available. Students learn through tailored workshops that develop their skills in carpentry, painting, decorating and tiling. The facility opened in 2015 and is only a few minutes drive from the Kensington Avenue campus.

Our Te Auaha Campus is our creative campus that opened in 2018. Located right in the heart of Wellington City, situated on the corner of Cuba Street and Dixon Street, it's just around the corner from Wellington's best loved bars, venues, restaurants, shops, and attractions. Te Auaha facilities include two theatres, 55 seater cinema, exhibition gallery and a performance studio.

Our modern Hospitality Campus is located on Wellington's famous Cuba Street, just a 15 minute walk from Wellington railway station. Being on Cuba Street means our hospitality and culinary arts students are learning in the thick of the action - a dynamic and constantly changing environment that only the Wellington CBD can provide.

Lisale Gagamoe

STUDIED Bachelor of Creativity - Digital Media

TEACHING Porirua College

Lisale studied a Bachelor of Creativity at Whitireia and is currently working as a full-time teacher at Porirua College. A former professional football player in the UK during his OE, he came back to New Zealand to study and create a portfolio that would get him into Weta Digital. He knew the best place to learn skills like storyboarding would be Whitireia. He started the design programme, and met his tutor in his third year. His tutor actually encouraged Lisale to look into a teaching career instead of film and entertainment. New Zealand needed more Polynesian male teachers, and she saw something in Lisale that she knew would make him an excellent teacher. After graduating Lisale went back to school to study teaching and hasn't looked back.

“InDesign is really great and helped me create educational resources really quickly. Understanding Illustrator has helped me segway into a deeper understanding of maths. With Photoshop I can bring traditional arts values into the digital space without losing its authenticity.”

Vicki Young

STUDIED NZ Certificate in Baking
WORKING Government House

Before Vicki studied baking at WelTec, she studied Criminology and Law at Vic. However, halfway through her degree she quickly realised she'd much prefer a career as a baker. After a period of working in a variety of roles Vicki came across the level 3 baking programme that was advertised on Instagram. She subsequently left her job and returned to school with a renewed purpose! Baking has always been Vicki's passion. The programme allowed her to explore that passion while giving her the right foundations in a supportive learning environment. After completing the level 3 programme, Vicki quickly enrolled in the level 4 programme, and subsequently the Diploma in Hospitality Management after that. She plans on using all her study experience to one day open a dessert bar named after her Grandmother.

“The programme let me explore my passion for food and baking and it gave me a technical foundation where I could learn why things are done in a certain way and it kind of reinforced a lot of the things I was already thinking.”

Nicolas Delwaide

STUDIED Graduate Diploma in Business

OWNER La Belle Waffle

Nicolas studied the Graduate Diploma in Management at WelTec after researching the best places to study business in Wellington - for him, WelTec's classes really stood out. He was able to keep working at his banking job part-time while he studied full-time. Six years after graduating, he set up his business, La Belle Waffle, based on Manners Street in the heart of Wellington. From marketing and design, to accounting and making the actual waffles, Nicolas and his wife are hands-on business owners. For Nicolas, building his waffle business is a personal dream come true as waffles feature in many of his fondest childhood memories back in Belgium. During his time at WelTec he learned how to make a business plan, and in a few years, he was able to put that plan into action, helping him to turn his dream into a reality.

“One of the first things I did when I came to WelTec was make a business plan, and a few years later I opened the shop. Opening a business is always a risk. When you work for someone you don't have as many responsibilities, and having that freedom of what you want to do and when you want to deliver it is something quite meaningful.”

Rosie Morrison

STUDIED Bachelor of Health Science (Paramedicine)

EMT WITH Wellington Free Ambulance

Rosie completed her Bachelor of Health Science degree at Whitireia. She graduated at the end of 2019 and she's just about to finish a graduate internship with Wellington Free Ambulance. She was lucky enough to be able to work and study at the same time, trying to learn cardiology and do shift work at the same time was hard she admits, but she's glad she did it. Rosie's days are varied and jam-packed and she loves the excitement of not knowing what kind of day she's going to have – it could be helping the elderly up off the floor, or helping people injured at a game. She thinks paramedicine is the perfect career where she's able to help people all over the region, in their homes and on the streets. It's the perfect job for someone as social and curious as she is.

“There was no real point where I was like ‘right, I’m gonna be a paramedic’. I had studied previously in Dunedin and was doing visual arts. I then did the whole travel thing, and came home really broke, not sure of my direction. I started looking up paramedicine and just went from there really.”

Arahina Ormsby-Matehe

STUDIED Youth Work
WORKING Māori Women's Development Inc.

Arahina knew she wanted to work with youth because as a young person she went through some hard times – times where she really needed someone to identify different opportunities for her, or someone to help her on a different path. Youth work is her way of giving back to her community – she wants to be that role model in someone's life giving them the support they need to turn their lives around. Currently working for Māori Women's Development Inc. as the Rangitahi Project Manager, Arahina started her journey with WelTec in 2015, completing her studies in youth work in 2018. In this role she spends her time organising programmes and events across Aotearoa with young people in places like schools or youth organisations, teaching them to run business enterprise programmes.

“Being ourselves and being true to our culture and our identity was really encouraged by our tutors so having a massive support network around that space was actually what helped me get across the line.”
